Some members wishing to do the long ride got left behind by those members who raced ahead. A discussion was held of how to deal with these issues. It was felt that regardless of the distance, a seasoned club member should accompany each route set out by the club. The routine that the Uxbridge cycling club use was discussed with a mass start then a break point for those who wish to speed ahead from those who wish to ride a shorter route or tour. Cycling etiquette/rules must be reinforced. Mike offered to review cycling skills prior to a ride.
